REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Board of Trustees:

As provided in the By-Laws, I hereby present a report of the 58th year of the College, closing on June 30, 1933.

Two changes in the Board have occurred during the year, through the death of George H. Davenport on November 10 and George H. Palmer on May 7. The following minutes were adopted by the Board in appreciation of the services rendered by these two distinguished members.

GEORGE HOWE DAVENPORT

At this, the first, meeting since his death on November 10, 1932, the Trustees wish to record their deep appreciation of the service of George Howe Davenport.

Mr. Davenport was elected to the Board in June, 1905. During these twenty-seven years of membership he served on many committees, notably the Building Committee, of which he was chairman for many years, and the Executive Committee, of which he was a member at the time of his death. He was vice-president from 1923 to 1928.

In his capacity as chairman of the Building Committee, Mr. Davenport supervised the erection of Mary Hemenway Hall, and undoubtedly this gave rise to his interest in the swimming pool, to which he made the very generous gift of $50,000.

Not only has his contribution as a committee member been significant, but also his unusual interest in all the various activities of the College. Mr. Davenport could always be depended upon to respond to any call from the College, whether to come to the assistance of some needy student or, in the summer, to share with the President the responsibility of important decisions in the absence of other officers of the Board. He was chosen by the Class of 1920 as their honorary member and both he and Mrs. Davenport entered into the various class festivities, much to the joy of the students.

At least once he sent to the secretary to the president money for the aid of members of this class. He left the naming of the beneficiaries to the College, stipulating only that the source of the gift should not be revealed to the students. His interest in the class of 1920 continued after graduation and he followed their careers with pride.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

His was no formal service, but a genuine and intelligent sharing in all the problems of the College. The Trustees place on record their profound sense of loss, together with their gratitude for his service and for his friendship throughout twenty-seven years.

GEORGE HERBERT PALMER

In the death of George Herbert Palmer the Trustees have lost a valued colleague and the College a devoted friend and benefactor.

Mr. Palmer was elected to the Board of Trustees in May, 1912. His interest in the College began much earlier, with his marriage to Mrs. Palmer in 1887. From that time he followed the development of the College, especially that of the departments of Philosophy and English Literature. His advice was often sought and wisely given in making appointments to these departments. His readings from his own translation of the Odyssey are among the delightful memories of earlier Wellesley students. He was for many years a member of the Committee on Educational Policy of this Board and from 1916 until his death he served on the Library Council.

On Mrs. Palmer's birthday in 1911, he made the first of his notable gifts to the College Library in the presentation of his Browning Collection, comprising the complete works of Mr. and Mrs. Browning, many of them in first editions. After this first gift, scarcely a year went by that he did not bring to the Library, on Mrs. Palmer's birthday, one or more precious volumes. These annual gifts to the Library culminated on February 21, 1924, when he presented his entire collection of English Poets, a priceless and incomparable treasure. These later years have brought further additions to this collection. Our Treasure Room is being constantly visited by scholars from many colleges and universities in all parts of the country.

The Trustees record here, with their sense of loss, their profound gratitude for the joint service of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer, constituting as it does a rich and imperishable heritage.

With the close of this year Alice Walton, Ph.D., Professor of Latin and Archæology, Clarence Grant Hamilton, M.A., Professor of Music, and Charles Lowell Young, B.A., Professor of American Literature, retired from active service. Professor Walton, a graduate of Smith College with the degree of doctor of philosophy from Cornell University, came to Wellesley as Instructor in Ancient Art in 1896; later her title was changed to Instructor in Latin and Archæology; in 1902 she became Associate Professor, and in 1915 Professor of Latin. Since 1925 she has been chairman of the

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Department of Latin. She was especially successful in making her students realize the vital and living quality of Latin literature. Many of us remember the Latin plays given by her students in their own translation. The simplicity of the presentation was accompanied by a keen appreciation of the characters, which were made living and modern for the audience. It is not easy to find teachers of such sympathy with students, together with a rigorous standard of scholarly achievement. Although Mr. Young retired technically in June, 1933, he was, like Miss Walton, on leave of absence during 1932-33. Mr. Young, a graduate of Harvard University, gave a service of thirty-five years to Wellesley, the first three years to the Department of English Composition. In 1901 he was appointed Instructor in English Literature and was successively promoted to Assistant Professor and Associate Professor. For the last twelve years of his service he devoted himself to American Literature, and he retires as Professor of American Literature. A long line of students have profited by his scholarly teaching and his sympathetic help in their literary endeavors. Mr. Hamilton, a graduate of Brown University, came to Wellesley in 1904 as Associate Professor of Music and was promoted to full professorship in 1918. Since the retirement of Professor Macdougall in 1927, he has been chairman of the department. Although in charge of the instruction in piano, he also taught many courses in the theory and history of music. He added to his duties in the Music Department a genuine interest in student activities and responded to every call for assistance outside his specific academic responsibilities. We trust that his health will permit him to continue his productive work in preparing books for the aid of music lovers. All three of these professors were given the title of "Emeritus." It is a pleasure to know that they live either in Wellesley or Boston and that the College will continue to enjoy their fellowship.

This year of 1932-33 brought to a close the service of three Heads of Houses—Effie Jane Buell, Head of Pomeroy Hall, Charlotte Mary Hassett, Head of Homestead, and Mary Gilman Ahlers, Head of Shafer Hall. In the report of the Dean of Residence, Mrs. Ewing gives the details of the service of these three officers. The President is glad to have this opportunity to bear testimony to the loyal and intelligent contribution of these members of the staff.

Death has brought other losses to our faculty. On November 14, Adeline Belle Hawes, Emeritus Professor of Latin Language and Literature, died in Rome, where she had lived since her retirement in 1925. Here she had carried on literary work in the environment which she loved. It is hoped that the charming essays which are the fruit of these eight years of scholarly leisure may be published. On December 4, Flora Isabel MacKinnon, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Philosophy, died in the Simpson Hospital after a very virulent case of pneumonia, lasting only four days. Miss MacKinnon graduated from Wellesley in 1907, received her M.A. degree from the College in 1909, and the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Toronto in 1924. She was Assistant in the Department of Philosophy and Psychology 1916-18, Instructor 1918-19, Assistant Professor 1925-28, and was promoted to the rank of Associate Professor in 1928. She was a stimulating and scholarly teacher, and her loss is keenly felt by her colleagues and students. The minute adopted by the Academic Council will be found in the Appendix of this report.

In the Appendix will be found also the list of other changes in the faculty, including the academic biography of the new members of the staff appointed for 1933-34 and the names of the members of the faculty on leave of absence for the whole or a part of the year 1933-34. Special mention should be made of the appointment of Franco Bruno Averardi, Dottorato in Legge, University of Turin, 1920, as Visiting Professor on the Mary Whiton Calkins Memorial Foundation. Not only the students in the Art Department but also the College in general enjoyed his scholarly and stimulating lectures; and our gratitude is renewed to the Alumnae Association for making the appointment of a visiting professor possible.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In the Appendix of this report will be found the new courses offered and also certain changes in methods of admission adopted by the Academic Council during the past year.

For the second time in two successive years two deaths occurred among the undergraduates: Elsa H. Buerk, a junior, on November 9, and Jean L. Henderson, a sophomore, on May 10. In October Miss Buerk went to Simpson Hospital with what was thought to be an attack of influenza. After a few days' observation by the college medical staff, symptoms indicated a more serious condition, and after several consultations she was transferred to the Baker Memorial Hospital for further observation. A diagnosis of tubercular meningitis was made, and death followed after ten days in the Boston hospital. Miss Henderson suffered a sudden attack while playing cards with friends in her room, lapsed into unconsciousness, and died within an hour and a half. The medical examiner gave subarachnoid hemorrhage as the cause of death.

Two amendments to the By-Laws were voted, one to Article VI and the other to Article X, bringing these By-Laws into conformity with the present usage, previously sanctioned by vote of the trustees. A new By-Law describing the duties of the Executive Secretary was voted as Section 3 to Article III.

On the recommendation of the Department of Botany and by vote of the trustees, the administration of the Alexandra Botanic Garden and the Hunnewell Arboretum was put in charge of a Board of Control, the detailed provisions of which will be found in the Appendix. The funds providing for the maintenance of this garden and this arboretum amounted on June 30 to $58,505, and it seemed wise to vest the control in a permanent body.

Early in the fall the Academic Council passed the following vote: "That the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction be authorized to make an investigation looking toward the improvement of instruction—such an investigation to include not only a survey of the courses offered but also some consideration of the teaching load." The Committee worked throughout the year. Several preliminary reports have been made to the Academic Council and, on the completion of their work, the Committee will present to the trustees a summary of the result. In 1910, by joint action of several institutions, including Harvard University, Boston University, Tufts College, and Wellesley College, provision was made for the award of the degree of Associate in Arts by the completion of a certain number of university extension courses. No candidate has presented herself to Wellesley for this degree, and as Harvard now offers it to women, the trustees voted, on the recommendation of the Academic Council, that the College discontinue offering it. Meantime the title of this degree has been changed to Adjunct in Arts.

During the summer of 1932 the so-called paint mill property was purchased by the College. All the land bordering Lake Waban is now owned by the Hunnewell estate and the College. The most outstanding addition to the college plant is Munger Hall, opened to students in January, 1933. This building was made possible through the gift of Jessie D. Munger, Wellesley 1886, accommodates one hundred and ten students, and is managed on the coöperative basis. Rarely has a building been erected on the campus which has met with such universal satisfaction. The architect was William T. Aldrich of Boston, one of our trustees.

The financial situation has increased the applications for aid. During the year covered by this report $83,752 was assigned to the aid of students: $45,390 of this sum came from the income of scholarship funds; $175 from loan funds; $2,657 from gifts, and $35,530 from current funds. In addition to this sum, remission of residence fees in coöperative houses and various other smaller concessions amounted to $40,866, making a total appropriation of $124,618 for the aid of students. In addition, the Wellesley Students' Aid Society, an incorporated body officered by alumnae, appropriated over $30,000, almost equally divided between gifts and loans. It seems evident that this demand for financial assistance will continue and probably increase. In view of these facts, the trustees voted to use Norumbega as a coöperative house next year and to discontinue the policy of student waitresses at Eliot House. This will mean that one hundred and sixty students will have the privilege of earning a substantial reduction in the residence charges.

The alumnæ committee of the Seven College group arranged during this year three luncheons, in Cleveland, St. Louis, and Pittsburgh. Lawyers and trust officers were the guests, and the purpose was to acquaint these gentlemen of the need of these colleges for endowment. No funds were solicited, but information in regard to the financial situation of these institutions was given by the speakers. President MacCracken addressed the luncheons at Cleveland and St. Louis, and President Woolley at Pittsburgh. Further publicity was secured by inspired articles in various magazines.

Two bequests have been received during the year which are worthy of special mention. Some years ago Sara Teasdale, one of our modern poets, visited the College and made a proposition by which the College was ultimately to receive by her will a substantial sum, the income of which was to be used for a poetry award. At her suggestion the details of this provision were approved by the trustees. At the time of her death, during the year under review, it was found that, although this provision remained in her will, she had also bequeathed to the College one hundred books which the College was to choose from her library. Miss Weed, the Associate Librarian, went to New York to select personally these volumes. For the most part, these books are the works of modern poets and are presentation copies, bearing the autograph of the authors as well as that of Miss Teasdale. They constitute a worthy addition to our poetry collection. The second bequest is that of Eleanor Prescott Hammond. Miss Hammond was a scholar of national reputation. She taught at Wellesley at intervals, giving in all some two and one-half years of service. She bequeathed to the College her entire library, the library of a scholar, constituting a notable addition to our collection. It is interesting that Wellesley College should be selected by these two women as their beneficiary. A list of other bequests and gifts will be found in the Appendix.

It is not inappropriate to mention here the dedication of the tablet to Miss Katharine Lee Bates as the author of "America the Beautiful," unveiled in the Fenway on June 10. The memorial was presented to the City of Boston by a committee composed of friends and admirers of Miss Bates, with the late Gamaliel Bradford as chairman. The money collected by this committee came from people representing many states and many walks of life—educators, authors, publicists, and school-children. A replica of this tablet was purchased by Colorado friends of Miss Bates and is placed in the chapel of Colorado College. It was in Colorado that Miss Bates received her inspiration for this song, which is fast becoming, as it deserves to be, the national hymn of the United States of America.

At the request of the trustees, the President made a tour of some of the Wellesley Clubs of the Far West, including St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and Tacoma. It was a great satisfaction to find so many loyal alumnæ who have made enviable places for themselves in their communities.

It is a great pleasure to close this report with the statement that, although the student body is nearly two per cent smaller than it was last year, no salaries have been cut, no members of the faculty dismissed, and no deficit incurred. On the contrary, the fiscal year closed on June 30 with a small but genuine surplus. This was accomplished by the coöperation of all parts of the college organization, the trustees, the faculty, and other members of the official staff. The President is happy to pay this tribute to all her co-workers. To secure a true picture of this 58th year of the College, the supplementary reports herewith presented should be read.

ELLEN F. PENDLETON.

June 30, 1933.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1933. During the academic year 1932-33, 318 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 656½ hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 318 courses include only one course given by the Department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen.

The following table shows the amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past four years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

The following figures are based on the preceding table, and show the relative size of the different departments of instruction for the last four years. The departments of Biblical History, English Composition, and Speech owe their places in the first ranks in part to the fact that they are prescribed subjects.

In September, 1932, of 10 seniors who had failed to pass the general examination in June, 7 later met the test and were awarded the degree of B.A. at the October meeting of the Trustees. They are ranked with the Class of 1932. One took the examination in the spring of 1933 and received the degree in June, leaving 2 who had not at the end of the year completed the requirement.

In June, 1933, 316 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelor's degrees conferred by the College, including those awarded in October, 11,245. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of sixty year-hours of class work, and no student is graduated without passing a general examination on a twelve-hour major. Every student is called upon to present a unified course either in addition to the required subjects or including that work as the beginning of her plan. This restricted elective comprises twenty-one year-hours made up in one of the following ways: twelve in one subject and nine in another; nine in one and nine in another and three in a supplementary course; twelve in one department, and six hours of supplementary work in a second department and three also supplementary in a third department; or twelve in one department, and three other courses of three hours each, all three being supplementary to the major subject; or fifteen hours in one department with six hours of supplementary work in a second department. The student presents for approval her chosen plan in the spring of the second year and may revise in the third year. The purpose of this considered plan is obviously to secure a distinct objective in the last two years and to give the student some sense of mastery in one subject.

The following table shows the number of students in the Class of 1933 who passed the general examination or the comprehensive examination for Honors in each department.

Of these six, one also failed to meet the credit requirement.

The 10 seniors who were graduated with Honors in Special Subjects received the degree with this award distinguished on the Commencement program in the special subjects as follows:

Chemistry	1	Greek	1
Economics	3	History	1
Economics and Political Science	1	Psychology	1
English Literature	1	Sociology	2

Of the 316 students who received the B.A. degree in June, 14 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 53 the rank of Wellesley College Honor Scholars.

The 5 juniors who spent the past year in France and the one who was in Germany have carried their course creditably. Of those in France, one student won first place in the June examinations given at the Sorbonne to the 225 students in the Cours de Civilisation.

The total number of students registered November, 1932, was 1,530, classified as follows:

Of these 474 new students admitted in September, 1932, 36 applied for advanced standing. These students came from other colleges.

The year was one in which the revised curriculum adopted in the preceding year continued to be an object of some consideration and discussion. The formal adoption of its provisions was a thing of the past, but as these provisions became effective in shaping the programs of students, interpretations of their scope and meaning were not infrequently called for, and a certain amount of new administrative machinery had to be created to take care of various matters such as the examination to test the reading knowledge of a foreign language.

The Academic Council also voted in October, 1932, that the Committee on Curriculum and Instruction should "be authorized to make an investigation looking toward the improvement of instruction—such an investigation to include not only a survey of the courses offered but also some consideration of the teaching load." In making the survey, the Committee used information obtained through questionnaires sent to 1,010 undergraduates, 635 alumnæ and 144 members of the faculty. The first two installments of the report on this work were made to the Academic Council in the spring of 1933. But the close of the academic year found the Committee with several months' work on the survey still to do.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY L. COOLIDGE,
Dean of the College.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Of the 67 students in residence

- 33 were carrying a full program of 9 to 12 hours
- 34 were carrying a part-time program
- 20 held graduate tuition scholarships
 - 2 held foreign-student scholarships
- 31 held staff appointments carrying tuition
- 13 paid tuition

The regular work of the Committee included the consideration of candidates for admission to work for the M.A., the M.S. in Hygiene and Physical Education, and the Certificate of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Education; and the supervision of students' programs, the consideration of theses, and the recommendation of candidates for degrees.

The Committee had to deal this year with an unusually large number of applicants for scholarships and fellowships: 31 applicants for the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship, and 12 for the Fanny Bullock Workman Scholarship. The awarding of the graduate scholarships for residence work was particularly difficult because of the unparalleled number of deserving candidates.

The Committee recommended to the Academic Council the change in the departmental announcements of "350" courses. These statements should read—350. Research or Individual Study, and should apply to both undergraduate and graduate work.

The Committee considered carefully the status of students holding bachelor's degrees, and wishing to do advanced work, but deficient at some point in prerequisite. The following amendment to Article VIII of the legislation was recommended to the Academic Council and subsequently voted:

1. In exceptional cases, candidates with the equivalent of the Wellesley B.A., but unable to meet all the requirements for admission as candidates for the master's degree, may with the approval of the department concerned be admitted as special graduate students.

2. Such students shall not be granted graduate scholarships.

REPORT ON GRADUATE INSTRUCTION

3. Any work completed by a special graduate student, later allowed to count toward a master's degree, must be carried at a grade of B or above.

4. A student may not remain in the class of special graduate students for more than one year.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN SARD HUGHES,

Chairman.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

To the President of Wellesley College:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the Department of Halls of Residence for the year 1932-33.

The year just closed has seen important changes in the housing of our students. We had anticipated that there might be a falling off of registration, due to the difficult financial situation throughout the country, but in September, 1932, every house was filled except Birches, a house for twenty students, which the College has rented for some years. On our return from the Christmas holidays, we were able to move 112 students into Munger Hall, the new co-operative house. This left Norumbega, Freeman, and Crofton vacant, and freshmen from Fiske, Clinton, Elms, Harris and Webb were moved into those houses. The leases of Webb, Birches, and Harris had expired and the College gave up its claim to them at this time.

These changes involved several adjustments in the staff. Mrs. Paschal was made Head of Munger; Mrs. Davidson moved with her students from Fiske to Norumbega; Mrs. Clifton, who had returned to the College in September, after an absence of three years in California, took charge of Crofton. Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Denio, Mrs. Dunham, and Mrs. Johnson were no longer needed. In September, 1932, Mrs. Longley and Miss Wilkin could not be placed; so that the staff was depleted from 28 in June, 1932, to 22 in June, 1933.

Our group has suffered considerably from severe illness during the past two years, and I am happy to take this occasion to express warm appreciation of the faithful and very competent service rendered as substitutes in various houses by Miss Mary Jenkins and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson.

With the close of the year came the retirement of three Heads of Houses who have given long and faithful service to the College. Mrs. Hassett was made Head of Clinton in 1920, of Dower in 1923, and of Homestead in 1927. In each of these houses she promptly established a spirit of co-öperation and of confidence among her students and maintained an atmosphere of harmony throughout her stay. Her relations with the rest of the staff have been most cordial. Her students have always formed a happy group, devoted to its Head.

Miss Buell began her work in Wellesley as Head of Norumbega in 1911, when Mrs. Newman retired after directing that house for thirty years. Miss Buell filled this difficult position most happily for seven years and was then given the larger responsibility of presiding over Pomeroy. Again she took over a house which had been under one woman's direction for a long time, succeeding Miss Mary Snow, who went that year to Washington House after thirteen years at Pomeroy. Miss Buell remained at Pomeroy for fifteen years, with one year's leave of absence. Miss Buell brought careful training and wide experience to her work as well as a real concern for the maintenance of high standards of character. She gave without measure to the students in her care. She has been a notable housekeeper and also a notable influence in the lives of many students.

Mrs. Ahlers is an alumna of the Class of '88 and has always been devoted to the best interests of her Alma Mater. In 1908 she returned to Wellesley as assistant to Miss Tufts, who then held the office of Registrar. The following year she became the first general secretary of the Alumnae Association. She continued to carry these two offices for the next seven years, serving at the same time as Head of a small house for freshmen in the village. Mrs. Ahlers left Wellesley in 1915 to organize and manage the new residence for women at Brown University known as Pembroke Hall, returning, after a signal success, to take charge of Wilder Hall in 1921. In 1927 she was made Head of Shafer. To this wide experience Mrs. Ahlers brought a keen flair for administration, and a deep loyalty to the best traditions of New England life, and particularly to the ideals embodied in the founding of Wellesley College. She has always carried her work with marked ability and has been a great force in the development of the life of the College.

The College sustains a distinct loss in the retirement of these three women.

Although the depression has made it difficult for many students to finance a college education, its effects have been definitely favorable to many others. In general, students have much less spending money at their disposal and this tends to make them seek diversions which do not involve much expense. The dormitory dining rooms continue, as last year, to be well filled; walking and bicycling are again recognized as pleasures; dances in Alumnæ Hall have been crowded, and house dances have been popular. There is a keen interest throughout the College in taking part in dramatics, but, curiously, plays are not as largely attended as they were five years ago. Barnswallows brought both John Masefield and W. B. Yeats to read their poems for the College this year, and each was welcomed by a college audience which filled Alumnæ Hall. Both of these events gave to small groups of students the opportunity to meet these distinguished guests at dinner. Informal gatherings were also arranged by members of the faculty for students to meet several other guests, notably Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson (V. Sackville-West) from England, who were most generous and gracious in giving time for informal conversation after their lectures.

An alumna committee, appointed to "make more real in the lives of undergraduates the achievements of alumnæ," planned three dinners at which alumnæ of distinction were kind enough to talk with small student groups in regard to their particular fields of interest. Members of the faculty have been entertained often at dinner in the dormitories both by Heads of Houses and by individual students.

At the close of last year, a considerable change was made in the rules governing absences of students from college. The operation of the new system has been carefully watched this year. A study of the absences of juniors and seniors during the fall term seemed to indicate that students returning to the college houses at one o'clock came in quietly in general, so that others were not disturbed. It was found that eighty per cent of the two classes averaged less than one late permission (11 o'clock or 1 A.M.) a week. Of the remaining twenty per cent (122 students), only 27 students averaged to be out late twice a week or oftener. In considering these late evening absences, together with registrations for over-night, it was found that one-fourth of the two upper classes were out of their houses after ten o'clock less than six times in twelve weeks. In general, not many students have been away for more than one night at a time, and most of the small group who go out constantly have not taken more than one long week-end in the term. This is a distinct change from our experience of ten years ago.

Late permissions for sophomores and freshmen were restricted to Saturday evenings, and the freshmen limited to two such permissions for the first semester, and two a month the second semester. With 378 in the sophomore class, an average of 45 had late permissions each week; and of 419 freshmen, an average of 31 a week. The added freedom allowed freshmen in the second semester did not result in any increase in the total number of absences.

The experiment of permitting students to return to their houses after ten o'clock at night has apparently somewhat increased the number of registrations, but has resulted in a large reduction in absences for all night and for week-ends of several days. Our situation differs from that of Mount Holyoke, Smith and Vassar in that our students find most of their social diversions in Boston, and so are able to come back to their own rooms for the night.

The Club House in Boston has continued to serve both alumnae and undergraduates, with a total of 302 registrations for the year. Of these, 42 are for alumnae, but the alumna patronage of the House is better indicated by the record of large tea and luncheon parties which have been held every month, with nine during March and April. In addition, the Head of the House has chaperoned 329 students who were sent back to college in busses or taxis after an evening's entertainment. These figures, however, show a drop in the use of the Club by students from 1,620 last year to 569 this year. It seems clear that the new regulations for absence from college have in large measure done away with the need of a house in town. The Club House was opened largely through the efforts of the Boston Wellesley Club to meet a situation which had become acutely difficult for the College. It has met that situation with complete success during the past nine years. The appointments of the house have been warmly appreciated by both alumnae and students. Its hospitality has added grace and dignity to the social life of the College.

This year marks a definite step towards the inclusion of all our students in campus dormitories. We look forward eagerly to the time when the erection of our last quadrangle will complete the realization of this plan.

Respectfully submitted,

MARY C. EWING,
Dean of Residence.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

To the President of Wellesley College:

The year 1932-33 has been marked by two important bequests: one from a well-known Chaucerian scholar, Miss Eleanor Prescott Hammond, formerly a member of the English Literature Department of the College; the other from the equally well-known poet, Sara Teasdale, whose interest in the College owing to her long acquaintance with our own poet, Katharine Lee Bates, was increased by a visit here some years ago when she was entertained at what was then the Guest House.

Miss Hammond's bequest brought to us one of the most important collections the Library has received in many years. We feel it to be a matter of pride that about two-thirds of Miss Hammond's books duplicate those already in our catalogue, for hers was the library of a scholar who kept up with the best that was published in the field of her interest. Internationally known as a Chaucer scholar, her collection of works, bearing on all literary questions arising in connection with the study of his work, is a notable one. As a lover and translator of Dante she had accumulated most of the English translations of that poet, as well as various editions of his works and commentaries thereon. Her interest in Boccaccio as a source of Chaucer's tales led to her acquiring some early and rare editions which have been added to the Plimpton Collection, considerably enriching our already large collection of that author. Another literary interest, the Dance of Death, caused the acquisition of a very interesting group of books which supplements our own material on this subject; while in the field of mediæval Latin literature and in general English literature and criticism her library shows the selection of a reader of taste and discrimination. Some of the books were presented to the Library by Miss Hammond before her death and were mentioned in the Report for last year, but about 650 volumes have been received this year, besides a large number of pamphlets. The entire collection, consisting of some 1,250 volumes, has been listed on cards, and duplicates indicated.

By a provision of her will Sara Teasdale left to the College the first choice of one hundred books from her library. The Curator of the English Poetry Collection was able to examine the library during the spring recess, and selected those books most valuable for the Collection, which has thus been enriched by the addition of copies of all the poet's own works, in each of which she has written, "Sara Teasdale, Her copy," or "Sara Teasdale, My copy"; also presentation copies of first editions of other poets with inscriptions addressed to her.

It would be out of the question to mention in this place all the gifts received by the Library during the year, but some of outstanding interest may be recalled. The same anonymous donor who last year presented the beautiful edition of D'Annunzio's Works, for the use of students of Italian, this year gave us the Works of Carducci and those of Pascoli. These editions are definitive and beautiful in type and format, and are a valuable addition to our rapidly growing collection of modern editions of Italian classics. Mr. Leo S. Olschki, the well-known book dealer of Florence, was kind enough to send us the title-pages, indexes, and missing numbers of Bibliofilia, the valuable bibliographical magazine published by him. We owe our possession of a set of this periodical to Miss Margaret H. Jackson, who for many years subscribed to it and presented it to the Plimpton Collection in the Library. Since her retirement it has been continued by the Library.

The Hon. Eugenio Broccardi, Mayor of Genoa, presented us with the very handsome volume containing facsimiles of all the records pertaining to the citizenship of Columbus in that city; while from the Hon. Adrien Marquet, Mayor of Bordeaux, we received a volume commemorative of the fourth centenary of the birth of Montaigne, in that city. The volume contains reproductions of portraits, documents, and title-pages of rare editions of Montaigne which formed part of the centenary exhibition at the municipal library.

Mr. E. Douglas Hamilton has continued to send books selected by us at his request for the Brooks Room and General Library. These are a memorial to Miss Ruth Graham '29, and carry her bookplate.

Miss Margaret Hewitt '97 sent us a list of books in her own collection from which we were able to select a number for the Library. Miss Louisa Blake also presented us with a large number of books of interest to German and Italian students. Those which were not needed by the Library were to be divided between the departments mentioned. From an English friend of Kate Douglas Wiggin came a number of autographed copies of her works, most of which were put into the Brooks Room. The Boston Tercentenary volume was received from Mr. Frederic H. Curtiss, who also presented us with an interesting facsimile of the so-called "Olive Branch Treaty" and a copy of an ancient atlas, the Accuratissima orbis delineato by George Horn, 1660.

Our library was also among those benefited by a gift to Yale University for the Yale Press by the terms of which the donor agreed to pay half the cost of books selected from the catalogue of the Press. We were thus enabled to obtain books which, owing to their cost or for some other reason, had not been purchased previously. We were also able in this way to secure another set of the Chronicles of America, which is in constant demand, and to add other very desirable duplicates of books already in the Library.

The most valuable purchases for the Art Library were: La Peinture au Musée du Louvre; Koechlin, Les Ivoires Gothiques Françaises; Dvorak, Pieter Brueghel der Ältere. The Reports of the Historical Manuscripts Commission and the set of Aulard, La Révolution Française, are outstanding additions to the History shelves. The Spanish Department was glad to be able to obtain the long-desired set of the Revista de Archivos, Bibliotecas y Museos, Ortega y Gasset, El Espectador, and Los Españoles pintados por si mismos; Pritzel, Index Londoniensis and Wilmott, The Genus Rosa are valuable additions to the Botany Library, while the General Collection is the richer by additions to the sets of Blackwood's Magazine and Archæologia. The Complete Works of Françoise Couperin, Bach's Kantaten and Klavierwerke, and the English School of Lutenist Writers, were important purchases for the Music Library from funds allocated to that department.

The very favorable exchange during most of the year rendered the English booksellers' catalogues more than usually attractive, and we were also able to secure a number of valuable books from the sale in this country of an important French library.

The total number of books now accessioned is 154,177. Statistics of accessions during the year 1932-33 will be found at the end of this Report. Needless to say, the figure given above does not represent the entire resources of the Library, many pamphlets not being accessioned. The number includes books added to the department libraries and to the general collection in the main building.

While we have asked for no addition to the stack room of the Library for next year, owing to the necessity for economy, it will not be possible to postpone beyond the year 1933-34 additions to the stack in the rooms at the south end of the building. Unfortunately, every tier of stack added will reduce the seating capacity of those rooms, as tables will have to be removed to make room for this shelving. In time, if this process is continued, there will be no seating room left. As the rooms in the rest of the building are often crowded to their limit, the inference is obvious.

The unfortunate construction of the building, lacking a central stack room and having the two parts of the building divided by the reading room, so that there is no communication between the upper floors, consumes time and energy on the part of the staff and of the users of the Library that would be much more usefully spent in a better arranged building. In order to make room for the year's accessions in some of the rooms at the south end of the building, sets of less used periodicals will have to be transported to the fourth stack floor at the north end. In order to give room for more reserved shelves, more periodicals must be removed from the Reading Room to the basement stack. This stack and the fourth floor stack are the only places in the Library which have any appreciable room for books. The stack cases which were put into the students' coat room (never used for the purpose for which it was designed) some years ago are largely filled by a collection belonging to the Education Department, for which there seems to be no other place in the College. The storeroom, which was made from a corner of this large room and lined with pine shelving for newspapers, is now so full that when the present shelving is used up no room will be left.

The department libraries, even the newest, are already overcrowded, and more and more the main library will be expected to house the overflow of their books, as in the nature of things most of them cannot be expanded to any extent. There is no question that an addition to the Library involving a very radical rearrangement of rooms and adding a stack of very sizable proportions is a crying necessity and cannot be delayed much longer. In the meantime, makeshifts that try the time and patience of all concerned are borne with commendable fortitude. The inconveniences to which the staff are subjected by overcrowding and necessary scattering of books and records can hardly be appreciated by anyone unfamiliar with technical details of library administration. It is hardly necessary to add that such inconveniences as have been mentioned are not only time-wasting but expensive. While any large addition to the Library would involve increased expense for its maintenance, we should hope that by careful planning the ratio of expense would not be so great as at present. It seems highly desirable that, although no such addition can be hoped for in the very near future, preliminary plans should be drawn which could serve as a basis of discussion by members of the faculty and administration, so that, when the time comes for building, the final plans may embody the suggestions of users of the Library. Discussion between members of the faculty who know the needs of their departments and members of the library staff who know the practical details of library administration could not fail to be valuable in working out such a plan; and the appointment of a consultative committee from the faculty would divide the responsibility for the plan between the users and the administrators of the Library. Such a committee worked together for ten years before the Dartmouth library was built. At Princeton a committee appointed by the faculty from their own members has drawn up an elaborate plan covering recommendations as to site, size of building and rooms recommended, provision for future extension, etc. It would seem that the time has come when the Wellesley College community should take cognizance of the fact that an addition to our present building cannot be put off many years longer.

The publication by the World Peace Foundation of the Key to the League of Nations Documents has furnished us the classification we have been seeking for these documents in order to begin to bind them. We have now begun with the sections on Economics and Disarmament and hope to continue with other sections until the collection is in more permanent and more useful shape than it has been up to this time. Naturally, the binding of such a large number of pamphlets has greatly increased both the work and the cost of this department of the Library. Statistics of the binding done during the year will be found at the end of this Report.

We have continued our connection with the work of the American Library Association Coöperative Cataloguing Committee, to which reference was made in our last report, by becoming a "Coöperating Library," one of some thirty. The work of the Committee is at present concentrated on increasing the supply of printed cards for current foreign books and monographs in series. Each library is asked to furnish copy from some of the books it receives in these classes for the printing of Library of Congress cards, and in return for such copy in each case receives a free set of cards and a small financial credit to be applied to the purchase of other cards. Coöperating libraries are also asked to send copy for the Union Catalogue at the Library of Congress of rare and unusual books not already represented there. The fact that our recataloguing has reached the point where we are cataloguing the older and more unusual material leads to our sending a good deal of such copy. While the time required for this work is very appreciable, we receive in return considerable bibliographical help from the Library of Congress, and are also benefiting from the plan to provide more printed cards for foreign books and for some of our monograph series. We are glad to be represented in the Union Catalogue, which promises to be a very useful bibliographical tool for scholars.

The Plimpton Room was opened three times during the first semester and enough interest was shown in the rare books there to cause the Curator to regret that the press of other duties prevented its being opened the second half of the year. Exhibitions from the Collection have followed a chronological order, beginning with examples of the earliest writers and continuing to the fourteenth century. Dante, Petrarch, and Boccaccio each filled all the cases with early editions and manuscripts. Minor writers and imitators of Dante were also represented. Brief articles describing each exhibition have appeared in the College News. The Curator hopes to continue these exhibitions from the rich collection of works of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. A full description aiming to give literary rather than bibliographical information accompanies each book or manuscript, in the hope that students who stop to examine the material in the cases may get some slight acquaintance with a part of the world's literature little known to the average student. A lecture on early Italian wood-engraving, with illustrations from material in the Collection, was given in the Plimpton Room to the class studying engraving and etching, by their instructor, a member of the Art Department.

Two persons, a member of the English Literature Department and a student of history, have each spent a number of hours there, making use in the one case of certain volumes of early literary criticism, in the other of two volumes of manuscript copies of Medici archives. The Curator would be glad to have the Collection more often used in this way. Some very interesting and out-of-the-way material on subjects other than Italian literature is to be found there. A rough subject index has been started by the Curator, who hopes some day to complete and revise it.

The total number of visitors to the Treasure Room during the year was 977. Among the many distinguished guests were the Hon. V. Sackville-West and the Hon. Harold Nicholson. This visit led, through the interest of Professor Sophie C. Hart, to the presentation to the Library of an autograph copy of Miss West's poem, Evening, which has been framed, together with a photograph of the author, and placed in the Brooks Room.

Mr. Francis H. Bangs, son of John Kendrick Bangs, visited the Treasure Room in November, and in recognition of the pleasure he had in examining the English Poetry Collection presented to the Collection two volumes of first editions of his father's poems, Songs of Cheer and Echoes of Cheer, and a little manuscript of Lyrics by Frank Dempster Sherman which was "made, bound and printed by F. D. S. for J. K. B." as a Christmas gift in 1890. The small paper volume, entirely the work of the author's pen, is of course unique. It is enclosed in a slip case of dark red morocco tooled in gold.

Arrangements were made during the year for students from Dana Hall, Walnut Hill School, and Simmons College, and for groups from Roxbury and Worcester to see some of the rare books and manuscripts. Twelve class appointments were held in the room, and twelve exhibitions were arranged by the Curator of the English Poetry Collection, Miss Weed.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

At the opening of the college year it was decided to continue the exhibition prepared in February, 1932, for the Washington Bi-Centennial. At the same time there were displayed first editions and autograph letters to commemorate the centenary of the death of Sir Walter Scott, September 21, 1832. First editions of the works of Keats were displayed in connection with the reading in October by Professor Chauncey Brewster Tinker. In November two exhibitions were prepared in honor of the coming to Wellesley of two well-known poets, William Butler Yeats and Robert Frost. Though our collection of first editions of the works of Mr. Yeats is far from complete, we were able to display some twenty-five volumes, mostly from the bequest of Katharine Lee Bates. Five of these were limited editions from the Cuala Press, three others have the author's autograph. In the case of the New England poet we were proud to be able to display first editions of all Mr. Frost's works, including his first work, A Boy's Will, and both the London and New York editions of North of Boston, these being all presentation copies with inscriptions by the author. An exhibition from the Ruskin Collection was arranged for March 24, on the occasion of the visit of the donor of that collection, Mr. Goodspeed, whose talk to the students is referred to elsewhere in this Report. Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner B. Pearmain of Boston, an interesting loan exhibition of authors' presentation copies was held during May. At the end of the college year, the exhibition of books received from Sara Teasdale aroused much interest.

Signèd photographs of Katherine Cornell as Elizabeth Barrett and of Brian Aherne as Robert Browning, with a copy of Besier's play, The Barretts of Wimpole Street, were given to the Browning Collection by Miss Hetty Gray Baker. From Mrs. Henry Bonnell '07 we received a Catalogue of the Bonnell Collection in the Brontë parsonage at Haworth. This is one of a hundred copies of a large paper edition issued by the Brontë Society in 1932, beautifully bound in full morocco. Mrs. Bonnell has also given us the second book of reproductions of Violet Oakley's work, this time an autographed copy of The Law Triumphant. The earlier book, The Holy Experiment, was presented to us by Mrs. Bonnell some years ago.

The death of Professor George Herbert Palmer, which occurred near the end of the college year, deprived the Library of one of its oldest and most loyal friends. In addition to the generous gift of his collection of early and rare editions of the English Poets, the Library possesses many other volumes presented by him, and his advice and counsel concerning matters of library policy were often asked and generously given. The building up of the English Poetry Collection may be said to have been the keenest interest of his later years, and we treasure the memory of his visits to it, delightedly bearing some addition to the Collection. The Library mourns the loss, not only of a generous donor, but of a wise friend.

An exhibition which was of interest to the entire College was that of books belonging to students which opened early in February and continued until the spring recess. The labor in selecting and arranging such an exhibition is considerable, but the Librarian felt well repaid, for many students have expressed their appreciation of the arrangement and description of the books which filled three cases in the Exhibition Hall. A committee of students under the very able chairmanship of Miss Anna Steinbrecher '33 helped in collecting the books. They included handsomely bound and illustrated modern books, examples of the work of modern presses, autographed copies of the works of contemporary authors, first editions of some eighteenth and nineteenth century authors, and examples of two sixteenth century presses. An account of the exhibition was published in the College News for February 16.

On March 24 a small but interested group of students and members of the faculty gathered in the Brooks Room to hear Mr. Charles Eliot Goodspeed, the well-known rare book dealer, and the donor of our Ruskin Collection, speak of his own collection of Ruskin's early drawings and other material illustrative of his life. Mr. Goodspeed's own enthusiasm for his subject made his account of Ruskin's youth and of his love in later life for Rose La Touche doubly interesting to his audience, and the sketches and portraits were eagerly examined after the close of his informal talk about them. They included a beautiful sketch of Miss La Touche by Ruskin, and the original portrait of Ruskin as a young man by George Richmond which has been so frequently reproduced. Mr. Goodspeed has added very much to our already great indebtedness to him by his generous response to our request that he give this talk to students of Ruskin and others interested.

The retirement of Miss Ellery from the library staff after twenty-three years, during all of which time she served as Librarian of the Music Library, took from our number one whose interest in the Library and in her fellow workers was unfailing and whose cheery presence was a continual source of refreshment. Fortunately she will remain in Wellesley and will always be regarded as an honorary member of the staff. Her place as Librarian of the Music Library, to which she gave part time, has been filled by the appointment of Mrs. Truitt, another member of our staff; and Mrs. Hirst, who was on the staff during the absence of the Librarian in 1931-32 and has since been on call when needed to take the place of members of the staff temporarily absent, has been appointed a full-time assistant.

In closing, I can only repeat the assurance of my indebtedness to the Administration, to the Library Committee, and to the Library Staff, without whose coöperation it would be impossible to give that service to the college community which its friendly and appreciative spirit deserves.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL DANE ROBERTS,

Librarian.

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

MINUTE ADOPTED BY THE ACADEMIC COUNCIL OF THE FACULTY IN MEMORY OF FLORA ISABEL MacKINNON, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY

In the sadness of farewell we remember, as she lived and worked, our colleague, Flora MacKinnon. To life she brought a sharp sweetness. Profoundly loyal, magnanimous, careless of all self-interest, she moved among us, a presence and example of integrity. To her teaching she gave a mind finely tempered, intrepid in its challenge, unswerving in logic, ardent for truth. She was swift in dispatch of all things futile or specious, patient toward the weak, tireless in service to the strong, creative to set the crooked straight and to guide the confused mind into the strength of peace. Her friendship was a sure and stable comfort, unchanged by separation or by division of opinion, enriched and tested by the years. Unconscious, as it seemed, of her great and silent generousities, she received back in abundance the gifts of life—the gifts of homely and innocent pleasure, of thought many-sided, of beauty, of variety, and of love. The assurance of her religious faith was the prize of intellectual courage. We think of her now “in God’s good grace, adventuring ’mid mysteries.”

NEW PLANS OF ADMISSION

March 22, 1933

PLAN C.—Candidates under this plan may take at the end of the junior year the Scholastic Aptitude Test and two examinations (not English) from the groups now required by Plan B. On the basis of the results of these examinations, the Scholastic Aptitude Test, school records, and recommendations from the principal, provisional acceptance may be given. Final acceptance will depend upon the results of the remaining two examinations which are to be taken at the end of the senior year and upon the school records of that year.

The examinations used in this plan are those given by the College Entrance Examination Board. The results of the examinations are reported to the College instead of to the candidate as in Plan B.

A candidate who is not provisionally accepted at the end of the junior year may apply for admission by examinations to be taken in the senior year under any College Board examination plan acceptable to the College.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Candidates wishing to enter by Plan C should make application to the Board of Admission on or before May 1 of their junior year in secondary school, and permission to take examinations under Plan C must be obtained from the Board of Admission.

PLAN D.—Admission under this plan is on the basis of the school records and recommendations and the Scholastic Aptitude Test. To be considered for admission by Plan D a candidate must have ranked, during the last two years of her school course, among the highest seventh of a graduating class containing at least seven students. She must have covered the equivalent of a standard four-year high school course which satisfies in general the requirements for approval under Plan B. Unqualified recommendation of the candidate by her school principal or headmistress is essential.

Since all admission is on a competitive basis, candidates for entrance by Plan D cannot be guaranteed admission. They may become eligible for admission subject to the same conditions as candidates applying for entrance by examination. As heretofore, final selection of all candidates is made by the Board of Admission on the consideration of all evidence, both personal and academic.

Candidates from any school may be considered for admission by this plan. The College, however, will feel free to consider the geographical distributions of students in the entering class and the proportional representation from public and private schools.

Regulations governing the administration of Plan D:

1. Candidates are eligible to apply for admission without examination other than the Scholastic Aptitude Test, only in the year in which they first graduate from a secondary school.

2. Candidates must register with the College Entrance Examination Board to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

3. Applications should state specifically:

- (a) The number of pupils in the graduating class.

- (b) The applicant's exact numerical rank in the class.

4. Applications must be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Board of Admission on or before May first in the year in which the candidate first graduates from a secondary school.

BOARD OF CONTROL FOR ALEXANDRA GARDENS AND HUNNEWELL ARBORETUM

The Alexandra Garden Fund amounted on June 30, 1932, to $31,405, and the Hunnewell Arboretum Fund to $27,067.10. It is proposed to increase the latter fund to $27,100, using some of its income for this purpose.

A definite portion of the campus was set aside some time ago for the Alexandra Garden and for the Hunnewell Arboretum. It is now recommended that this Botanic Garden and the Arboretum be placed under the supervision of a Board of Control, with the following provisions:

APPENDIX TO THE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

I. Trustee Authorization. The Trustees have set aside a definite portion of the campus for the Alexandra Garden and the Hunnewell Arboretum, with the provision that the Trustees are free at any time to make such other appropriation of any portion of this land, so set aside, as, after due consideration, they deem desirable. The Botanic Garden and the Arboretum shall be definitely located on all official maps of the college campus. These two sections are indicated on the colored maps, dated March 1, 1933, and one copy placed in the Treasurer's office and one in the President's office. The Trustees hereby place the Alexandra Garden and the Hunnewell Arboretum under a Board of Control which shall administer the same under the direction of the Trustees and shall be organized as follows:

II. Board of Control.

A. PERSONNEL. President of the College (ex officio) to meet with the Board at least once a year.

Members of the Botany Staff:

1. The chairman of the Botany Department (ex officio).
2. Two other members of the Botany Staff of professorial rank or with membership in the Academic Council, whose work is most nearly allied to that of the Gardens.

B. ELECTION. The two members of the Board not serving ex officio shall be elected by the Council members of the Botany Staff, each for a term of five years.

(With the approval of the President, one of the three members from the Botany Staff, chosen by the Board of Control, shall bear the title: "Chairman of the Board of Control and Director of Botanic Gardens.")

III. Administration.

A. The College proposes for the time being

1. To construct and maintain all walks which serve the general college and to properly light the same.
2. As at present, to maintain the water system and to provide for the spraying and pruning of the trees as requested by the Board.

B. All expenses connected with planting and upkeep other than those mentioned above are to be met from the income of the Garden and Arboretum funds.

REPORT
TREASURER
JAMES DEAN
1932-1933

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

Figures lend themselves to such varied interpretations that some knowledge of the conditions which they aim to reflect adds greatly to their significance. Under the cold facts presented in the following pages lies a tale of human interest, of coöperation, struggle, and achievement which has marked the year 1932-33.

Plant. The most notable expression of helpfulness to the college community is evidenced in Munger Hall, the beautiful coöperative house opened in January. The College is grateful, indeed, to Miss Jessie Munger, '86, whose generous gift, in memory of her mother, made possible this new home, on a coöperative basis, for 111 girls. The opening of Munger enabled the College to close six other dormitories—Fiske, Crofton, and four leased houses in the village. During the year the College bought the land known to many college generations as the paint mill property, and so completed private control of the whole shore of Lake Waban.

Funds and Investments. Personal interest appears again in the increase in permanent endowment, mainly for salaries and scholarships, of $87,305.25. The net increase in building, equipment, and other funds was $58,104.26.

There are few noteworthy points in regard to investments. The relative proportion of different classes has remained about the same through the year. Bond holdings have decreased 2.4%, while cash has increased 2.6%. On June 30, 1932, the market value of our investments was 32.8% below book value. June 30, 1933, saw market 17.4% below book value, a welcome improvement.

Income and Expenditures. Our gross income decreased by 3% from that of the preceding year. This difference was the direct result of decrease in student registration and of lowered receipts because of increased aid necessary to help students through the year. Registration fell slightly less than 2%, while aid through scholarships and coöperative houses rose nearly 17% from the previous highest record. The College used every means at its disposal to help and to keep worthy students who were facing difficult problems and unprecedented conditions. It is interesting to note that 74% of our gross income came from students, 19% from funds income appropriated, and 7% from miscellaneous sources.

Through the careful coöperation of those responsible, all department expenditures for the year, academic, maintenance, administrative, and residence decreased, the total reduction being 3.1%. We were thus enabled to keep well within our allotted income and to close the year with a surplus. We increased our reserve for depreciation and reduced to $73,000 endowment funds invested in dormitories. That we accomplished this and effected substantial savings without any reduction in salaries is a source of great satisfaction.

Respectfully submitted,

EVELYN A. MUNROE,
Assistant Treasurer.
